All Saints' Church in Peterborough celebrated the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone on September 16, 2017.

On September 16, 2017, All Saints' Church in Peterborough celebrated the first of several centenary anniversaries with the laying of the cornerstone of the church building.

The church was built in response to the need for a small but growing Episcopal congregation in town. Inspired by St. Mary the Virgin Church in Iffley, Oxfordshire, England, Mary Cheney hired Ralph Adams Cram to design and oversee the construction of this new church. Often referred to as the "stone church," it was built from granite quarried nearby from the Cheney's estate.

Mrs. Cheney paid for and oversaw every detail of the construction. Charles J. Connick was retained to create the stained glass windows and all the detailed woodcarving throughout the church was done by master carver Johannes Kirchmayer. The church was built as a mortuary chapel to be the resting place for her young husband, Charles Cheney, William Cheney, 21, their son who died in World War I, William Henry Schofield, her second husband, and Mary Cheney Schofield are entombed in granite in the crypt chapel in the lower level of the church.

Loco Foco Matches

In 1835 Edward Poole's jewelry store was the first to advertise and sell "Loco Foco (friction) matches for families." "Loco Foco" meant "friction," although "self-lighting" has been offered as a better definition.

Poole's matches were imported because the first American patent for friction matches was not issued until 1836.
