Tree Top Construction: Building Excellence From The Ground Up

work crew at Tree Top Construction. "Quality custom workmanship is behind every project we do. Taking care of the customer is the number one aspect of our company, no matter the project size." Oftentimes people might be apprehensive to make home improvements due to costs. Moore and Poitras are knowledgeable when it comes to creative financial solutions for the homeowner. They educate customers toward the right home improvement project that will represent the homeowners' best investment return. "We know (in this economy) that people are trying to keep costs down," says Poitras. "We want to help them make the right choice for their overall investment."

Moore goes on to say that they expedite their work fast and efficiently, with quality at the top of the list. "We find through experience that with customer relations, communication is the key to holding the project together," he adds. "Talking with the customer keeps them up-to-date with project progress, set backs, or change in orders."

This contracting business only uses local subcontractors who they have had professional experience with and can rely on. "As a general contractor, we deliver on expert craftsmanship and professional service," Poitras adds. "We do everything from the ground up."

From the installation of solar panels to the building of "green" homes, this local contracting business also strives to play an active role in saving the planet. They believe in respecting the property of the owner; by the end of each day, the site is cleaned up. "Who wants to deal with a mess, especially if the customer lives (on the property) as we work on his house?" Moore adds.

Tree Top Construction is a fully insured company that also has professionals on staff who are aerial lift certified. This has come in handy for many of the area municipalities who have needed an aerial lift for town and city projects. This contracting company also owns all of their own equipment, which means no time loss from trying to track down equipment and hauling it to the work site.

The professionals at Tree Top Construction are dedicated to helping customers get what they want from their home. This proven approach means consistent results and happy clients. They work hard to create a thorough, honest, and comprehensive assessment of the customer's project from the very beginning.

Moore and Poitras want prospective customers to know that when you hire Tree Top Construction to do custom building, a dream kitchen remodel, septic work, or even earth work (custom walls, retaining walls, landscaping, etc.) that customers don't have to cross their fingers and hope for the best. The outcome is going to be a success.
